English Communication 1&2

By the end of modules 1 and 2, the students will have:

- developed advanced business communication skills in English at level C1*;
- developed critical thinking skills through reading, writing, listening and speaking activities.
- received intensive practice in all skills for the Business English Certificate Higher (C1)

Language competence as defined by The Common European Framework of Reference (CEFR): Level C1

At this level, users are expected to be able to use the structures of a language with ease and fluency. They are aware of the relationship between the language and the culture it exists in, and of the significance of register. This means that to some extent they are able to adapt their language use to a variety of social situations, and express opinions and take part in discussions and arguments in a culturally acceptable way. Users at this level can develop their own interests in reading both factual and fictional texts. They can also produce a variety of types of texts and utterances, such as letters of varying degrees of formality. They can use language in a creative and flexible way, with the ability to respond appropriately to unforeseen as well as predictable situations, producing quite long and complex utterances. The written and spoken texts encountered in most common everyday situations can be dealt with at a level below that reached by the Level C1 user, but some of the more difficult situations connected with renting accommodation demand this level of language. Users at this level can enjoy a wide range of social contacts. Examinations at Level C1 may be used as proof of the level of language necessary to work at a managerial or professional level or follow a course of academic study at university level.

6. Assessment and validation methods

The module is calculated as follows:

- ☒ Further details regarding assessment and validation methods are specified in the module or course unit syllabus available on the Cyberlearn Moodle page of the module or course unit.

7. Remediation and repetition

Module repetition and remediation are governed by the program regulations as well as the RE-HEG.

Remediation

Module eligible for remediation if the overall module grade is between 3.5 and 3.9, in accordance with Art. 29 R-FB. In case of remediation, grades for continuous assessments or bonus grades are not carried over.

☐ Module composed of multiple course units evaluated individually: remediation applies exclusively to those course units for which the grade obtained is below 4.0. Remediation takes the form of an additional assessment for each course unit concerned, covering the learning objectives of that course unit, as determined by the relevant course-unit coordinator.

☒ Module consisting of a single course unit, or of two integrated course units evaluated jointly at module level: remediation takes the form of one additional assessment covering the learning objectives of the module as a whole.

Repetition

In the event of module repetition, students are required to complete the module in accordance with the following provisions: for modules comprising more than two course units, only those course units for which a grade below 5.0 was obtained must be repeated; for modules comprising one or two course units, students repeating the module must repeat all course units in their entirety, irrespective of the grades previously obtained. Grades or assessment results obtained during a previous attempt are otherwise not carried over.

☒ In case of accelerated repetition per Art 7 of the R-IBM, grades for continuous assessments are carried over.

☐ In case of accelerated repetition per Art 7 of the R-IBM, grades for continuous assessments are not carried over and are replaced as follows: (please specify).
